

Getting boys to read!

Tuesday 17th April, 4pm – 6.30pm, Ashmount School, Loughborough

Learning to read is really hard work and doesn't always appeal to all children. Young boys can particularly find learning this new skill daunting, opting for more practical and active ways to spend their time.

Who should attend?

All EYFS practitioners

This course will:

Provide practitioners with lots of fresh ideas and suggestions for tackling teaching young boys to read.

Delegates will leave feeling inspired through a range of simple, fun and instantly engaging activities and provision enhancements.

Why choose this EYFS course?

- Heaps of inspirational ideas to take away and try the next day
- Fun, motivational and thought provoking delivery
- Productive and practical trouble shooting

About the course leader

Emma Spires is a former Early Years Ofsted Inspector with a wealth of Early Years teaching, leadership and advisory experience.

Emma combines outstanding subject knowledge and a solutions-based approach to deliver inspiring and practical CPD. She focuses on empowering and enabling professionals and children alike to achieve long-term impact and results.

Ways to book

Click here to book a place

or

Email: jessefans@ashmount.leics.sch.uk

or

Tel: 01509 632911

Price includes a light evening buffet.

£60 (members)
£85 (non-members)