

Learning Adventures

'Breaking the Rules of Engagement'

Wednesday 18th April, 4pm – 5pm, Ashmount School, Loughborough

Please come along to this session to find out more about a new local venture for 2018.

Learning Adventures - Our principles

Our aim is to enable children to become the proactive, informed and fulfilled citizens of tomorrow, as well as teaching them to become readers, writers, mathematicians, scientists, artists, and designers.

We believe that engagement is key to successful learning, using different environments, settings and strategies to hook children into learning, to enhance their enjoyment and understanding and to provide opportunities to use and apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

These principles are at the core of all we offer on our Learning Adventures

What we can offer your children and staff

- Learning Adventure days in natural and wild environments to support character development and well-being
- Learning Adventure days and nights, in natural and wild environments (or sometimes in your own school),
- Forest School taster days and programmes and/or support setting up and running your own outdoor learning programme
- Outdoor learning days designed for small specific groups (e.g. higher achievers, children with social or emotional difficulties)
- Support to identify and deliver meaningful opportunities for outdoor learning within your existing themes and topics
- Support with planning meaningful residential experiences
- Class teacher/Senior staff/Subject Coordinator support
- Modelled lessons with children and staff (CPD)
- Whole school INSET days

Session Leader

Simon Perkins has 32 years of experience teaching, the last ten as a teaching Head.

“We believe that in order to nudge learning forward learners must take risks. Being able to recognise, manage and feel comfortable with taking a risk is a vital part of the learning process. It is by risking our comfort that we achieve and grow and learn.”
