

Workload and well being

Thursday 23rd January 2020, 8:00am – 10:30am, Ashmount School

Hurray, at last an issue where there is total unanimity in the education world. No-one thinks teachers should be working harder! We all agree that workload and well-being have to be addressed. What we don't always agree on is exactly what practical measures we can take in schools to make a difference.

Who should attend?

This breakfast session is aimed at middle and senior leaders in both Primary and Secondary Schools.

Course content

Gary Toward and Chris Henley are inspirational speakers with over 70 years of experience between them in schools. They are also co-authors of five books on education, all nominated as finalists for Educational Book of the Year.

They will share their thoughts on how to make a real difference to teachers' lives, because it is teachers who make a real difference to kids' lives, and for that to happen, kids need teachers to be at their brilliant best.

They will draw on years of experience plus an insight into current best practice.

They will look at:

- Creating that magic feel good factor
- Marking policies
- Meetings
- Use of technology
- Teaching and Learning policies

About the course leaders

Former teachers and school leaders, Chris Henley and Gary Toward always receive rave reviews from delegates and head teachers alike:

"Lots of practical ideas for me to implement in my classroom tomorrow."

"Superb! Very relevant and thought provoking."
